MYFOXNY.COM - Artist David Brooks and Doreen Remen of the Art Production Fund visited Good Day to talk about "Desert Rooftops," the installation at West 46th Street and 8th Avenue.

The sculpture is 5,000 square feet of roofing. It is on display through Feb. 5, 2012.

David Brooks is an American sculptor and installation artist, whose work considers the relationship between the individual and the built and natural environment. He received his BFA from the Cooper Union in New York, and his MFA from Columbia University. Brooks has exhibited large-scale installations at Dallas Contemporary, Miami Art Museum, Nouveau Musée National de Monaco, Bold Tendencies London, as well as American Contemporary and the Sculpture Center in New York. Brooks was featured in the 2010 Greater New York at MoMA PS1 and lives and works in NYC. Brooks is represented by American Contemporary in New York.

Art Production Fund (APF) is a non-profit organization dedicated to producing ambitious public art projects, reaching new audiences and expanding awareness through contemporary art.
