

ART PRODUCTION FUND'S FOURTH ANNUAL I DREAM OF... GALA

(Left to Right) Richard Pandiscio, Yoko Ono and Jeff Koons; Lauren Santo Domingo and Laure Heriard Dubreuil; Steven Klein; Aaron Young and Sarah Hoover; Cynthia Rowley; Rachel Feinstein

Art Production Fund's Fourth Annual Benefit took over the sixth floor of the storied interior design retailer ABC Carpet & Home last Monday, honoring visionary artists Yoko Ono and Richard Pandiscio.

The gala's theme, "I Dream Of..." (yes, inspired by Jeannie) was a dreamy infusion of the senses, beginning with sitar player Fabrizio Brua strumming by the elevator that whisked guests upstairs.

APF co-founders Yvonne Force Villareal and Doreen Remen greeted the vibrantly colored crowd as they entered a lofty, Beaux-Arts oasis dotted with brightly colored poufs and pillows from Madeline Weinrib's atelier and streams of silky fabrics. Yoko Ono's wish tree came into full bloom as partakers hung their paper tag wishes on its branches.

Sotheby's Tobias Meyer flirted with the crowd as he lead APF's first live auction, which included donated works by Terence Koh, Ryan McGinley, and Rudolf Stingel. Hip-hop musician and yogi MC Yogi and DJ Drez flew in from California for the night, taking the stage and enticing a slew of admirers to kick their shoes off and break out their dance moves on carpet piles.

Notable guests included Fabiola Beracasa, Maggie Betts, Derek Blasberg, Samantha Boardman, Aby Rosen, Cecily Brown, Lucy Chadwick, Todd Eberle, Erin Fetherston, Jeanne Greenberg Rohatyn, Sarah Hoover, Jeff Koons, Steven Klein, Josephine Meckseper, Richard Phillips, Ryan McGinley, Lauren Santo Domingo, Olympia Scarry, Neville Wakefield, Cindy Sherman, Vito Schnabel, Kiki Smith, Arden Wohl, Aaron Young, and Laure Heriard Dubreuil.